 - (b) any right to control public access or public use of the land or waters in the Determination Area.
10. The native title rights and interests in the Determination Area are subject to and exercisable in accordance with:
 - (a) The laws of the State of New South Wales and of the Commonwealth;
 - (b) The traditional laws acknowledged and traditional customs observed by the Yaegl People; and
 - (c) The terms of any Indigenous Land Use Agreement which may at any time be registered by the National Native Title Tribunal in respect of any part of the Determination Area.

Nature and extent of other interests

11. The other interests in the Determination Area are the interests described in Schedule Seven ('Other Interests').

Relationship between native title rights and Other Interests

12. Subject to paragraphs 13 and 14, the relationship between the native title rights and interests in the Determination Area and the Other Interests is that:
 - (a) the Other Interests continue to have effect;
 - (b) the Other Interests co-exist with the native title rights and interests;
 - (c) the native title holders do not have the right to control access to or the use of the land or waters by the holders of the Other Interests, acting in accordance with those Other Interests; and

- (d) to the extent of any inconsistency, the Other Interests and any activity that is required or permitted by or under the exercise of a right conferred or held under the Other Interests, while they are in existence, prevail over but do not extinguish the native title rights and interests and any exercise of those native title rights and interests.
13. In relation to the area of land and waters described in Schedule Three (where section 47A of the Native Title Act applies and prior extinguishment is disregarded), the relationship between the native title rights and interests in the Determination Area that are described in paragraph 6 and the Other Interests is that:
- (a) the Other Interests continue to have effect;
 - (b) the non-extinguishment principle in section 238 of the Native Title Act applies to the grant or vesting of the Other Interests or any other prior interest in relation to the area in accordance with section 47A(3)(b) of the Native Title Act; and
 - (c) the native title rights and interests continue in their entirety but have no effect in relation to the Other Interests, and any activity that is required or permitted by or under and done in accordance with the Other Interests prevails over the native title rights and interests and any exercise of the native title rights and interests, but does not extinguish them except in accordance with law.
14. In relation to the land and waters described in Schedule Four and any other land and waters in the Determination Area transferred to an Aboriginal Land Council under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 (NSW) ('Aboriginal Land Rights Act') as a result of claims lodged on or after 28 November 1994, the Other Interests will be subject to the native title rights and interests.

Schedule Six

Excluded Area

The following is a description of the Excluded Area, being land or waters in respect of which the parties have agreed no determination of native title is to be made at present.

Commencing at the intersection of the Mean High Water Mark of the South Pacific Ocean and the southern bank of Wooli River and extending generally northerly, generally north westerly and again generally northerly along that Mean High Water Mark, crossing the mouths of any waterways between the seaward extremities of each of the opposite banks of each such waterway to a point on the north eastern boundary of Wooded Bluff (Shark Bay) at Longitude 153.362980° East; then east to the 3 Nautical Mile Limit; then generally southerly along that 3 Nautical Mile Limit to Latitude 29.886218° South; then westerly back to the commencement point.

Note:

- For the avoidance of doubt, the Excluded Area does not comprise any land and waters subject to Native Title Determination Application NSD6052/1998 - The Yaegl People (NC1996/038).
- Application boundary data compiled by the National Native Title Tribunal normally from data sourced from the LPM Authority, Land and Property Information Division, NSW.
- Maritime boundaries data is © Commonwealth of Australia (Geoscience Australia) 2006. AMB 6th Edition released in February 2006.
- Native Title Determination Application: NSD6052/1998 - The Yaegl People (NC1996/038) - as accepted for registration 11th December 2006.
- Wooli River and High Water Mark based on Cadastral data.

Reference Datum

Geographical coordinates have been provided by the NNTT Geospatial Services and are referenced to the Geocentric Datum of Australia 1994 (GDA94), in decimal degrees and are based on the spatial reference data acquired from the various custodians at the time.

Use of Coordinates

Where coordinates are used within the description to represent cadastral or topographical boundaries or the intersection with such, they are intended as a guide only. As an outcome to the custodians of cadastral and topographic data continuously recalculating the geographic position of their data based on improved survey and data maintenance procedures, it is not possible to accurately define such a position other than by detailed ground survey.

Prepared by Geospatial Services, National Native Title Tribunal (20 May 2015).

Reference Datum

Geographical coordinates have been provided by the NNTT Geospatial Services and are referenced to the Geocentric Datum of Australia 1994 (GDA94), in decimal degrees and are based on the spatial reference data acquired from the various custodians at the time.

Use of Coordinates

Where coordinates are used within the description to represent cadastral or topographical boundaries or the intersection with such, they are intended as a guide only. As an outcome to the custodians of cadastral and topographic data continuously recalculating the geographic position of their data based on improved survey and data maintenance procedures, it is not possible to accurately define such a position other than by detailed ground survey.

REASONS FOR JUDGMENT

1 Today, at last, the Yaegl People will be recognised as having that which they always in truth had – but which remained unrecognised by the common law of Australia – native title rights and interests in the land within the claim area.

2 The Yaegl People first sought recognition of their native title in November 1996, nearly two decades ago. I say, with regret, that today we are finally resolving the oldest matter that exists in the Federal Court of Australia – what is known as the Yaegl # 1 proceeding. At the same time we will be resolving the land-based part of the much more recent but related Yaegl # 2 proceeding, filed in 2011.

3 That we have finally reached this milestone, belated as it is, is a testament to the unity, determination and strength of the Yaegl People. They, as a people, have endured the dispossession from their lands as a result of European settlement which the Native Title Act 1993 (Cth) (the NTA) is intended to recognise and redress, and have endured also the best part of two decades of legal process, to obtain legal recognition of who they are – the Yaegl People – and of the land which was theirs and over which they continue to enjoy the native title rights and interests identified in the proposed determinations.

4 In the native title consent determination hearings at which I have presided I have spent time focusing on the effect of the gross delays which have bedevilled these matters since the inception of the NTA. I have done so because all involved in the administration of the NTA should have a true understanding of how extraordinarily pernicious are the effects of such gross delay.

5 The kind of delays which have been experienced in native title matters entrench injustice over generations. How sad, indeed how shameful it is, that in many of these matters the people who started the claim often become too aged or infirm to see the matter through or pass away, never having seen their labours bear fruit. Delay of this kind saps away any sense of justice or fairness in the process. It erodes confidence in the institutions which are meant to serve our common interests. It can instil a sense of despair and incapacity in those who should be actively engaged in and empowered by the process. These effects are intolerable – and the short point is this – they now are no longer being tolerated. The fact that the Yaegl # 2 claim has been resolved within a period of less than four years is a testament to what can be achieved when all parties are focused and acting in good faith.

6 So today at last the Yaegl People have achieved what they set out to do. In so doing, they have satisfied the procedural requirements in ss 87 and 87A, as applicable, of the NTA. They have satisfied too the requirements of the State as to the substance of their rights and interests. To do so, they had to file 39 witness affidavits and statements, seven anthropological reports, two historical reports, various genealogical reports and give evidence on country in a hearing conducted by the National Native Title Tribunal in the context of a mediation in 2011.

7 Let me pause here so you can take note of just how much the Yaegl People had to do to establish a credible basis for their claims sufficient for the State to consider a negotiated outcome justified.

8 I have not undertaken a review of all of that material. In a hearing directed towards the making of consent orders it is not appropriate I do so. But one cannot help wonder why it is that so much material – no doubt at very substantial expense and certainly consuming substantial time and energy – had to be prepared and provided so that meaningful negotiations could commence.

9 To enter into negotiations and determine appropriate consent orders, the burden on the State is to satisfy itself that there is a credible basis for the application (Lander v South Australia [2012] FCA 427 at [11] citing Munn v Queensland (2001) 115 FCR 109; [2001] FCA 1229). Given that standard, it is legitimate to ask why it was necessary in this matter for there to be 39 lay affidavits or statements, seven anthropological reports, and two historical reports. No other Aboriginal people were claiming the same land as the Yaegl People. No one, moreover, was suggesting that the incredibly beautiful land we have had the privilege of seeing today was simply unoccupied at the time of European settlement. The issue was whether there was a credible basis for the claim that the Yaegl People were the right people for this land, whose connection with the land continued to be rooted in pre-sovereignty traditional laws and customs. It is important that we all understand that a credible basis for this proposition does not mean evidence that would meet the standard of the balance of probabilities. It does not necessarily mean evidence in an admissible form at all. It means material which provides a foundation for the application which is believable and rational. While it is important the State properly discharge its functions and that those responsible for doing so be provided with sufficient resources for that purpose, the application of the resources available, which as we know is by no means unlimited, needs to reflect the nature of the issue and the standard which the State should be applying to the resolution of that issue – a credible foundation for the application and no more.

10 The proportional application of resources which I have been urging in respect of tenure searching over the past two years applies equally to the requirement for provision by the applicant to the State of sufficient material to provide a credible basis for the application. It applies also to the State's processes for review of that material. Parties should expect in future matters that such a proportional approach will be required. If bilateral arrangements between the State and the applicant result in a need for 39 witness statements and seven anthropological reports, then the Court has no choice other than to become more directly involved in this part of the process, as it has done with tenure, to ensure proportionality is applied.

11 But back now to the Yaegl People. The onerous process to which the Yaegl People have been subjected leaves no room for doubt that the State has done all it can to act as the guardian of the public interest and the interests of third parties. The proposed consent orders thus reflect an outcome negotiated at arm's length, reached by a voluntary process, to which the Court should give effect by the making of the orders as proposed.

I certify that the preceding eleven (11) numbered paragraphs are a true copy of the Reasons for Judgment herein of the Honourable Justice Jagot.
